3 QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR STUDENT

The podcast provided & the Axis.org article offer great ideas to start this conversation with children of all ages. Using age-appropriate discernment, some other high-level questions you can ask to begin this conversation include:

2. Do you think that smartphones make it easier for people to look at things they shouldn't? How have you seen this happen?
3. I recently read that the average age of exposure to pornography is age 12, so I wanted to ask- have you ever seen pornographic images, either on purpose or accidentally?
